C. C. F. MEETINGS

Carlsbad—Mr. P. N. R. Morrison and Mr. Wm. Irvine addressed a C. C. F. meeting at Carlsbad Saturday night. There was a fine response. Quite a number of new members signed up. It was decided to elect a provisional president of the local at that meeting and to complete the organization of the local at a subsequent meeting. Mr. Alfred Anderson, Carlsbad, was chosen as provincial president. Several members undertook to secure more new members prior to calling a meeting to complete the organization of a local.

Strathmore, Friday, July 2nd, a meeting was called to be addressed by Messrs Morrison and Wm. Irvine, but owing to very little publicity, only four people attended, and the meeting was cancelled.

Strathmore would welcome an opportunity to hear Mr. Roper, C. C. F. Leader for the Province. However, publicity is necessary to ensure a good attendance.

Allied Advance Continues in Sicily

—(FROM BRITISH PRESS)—

NOTO, Sicily, June 12—

The invasion of the south-eastern tip of Sicily has become a pursuit of an almost non-resisting enemy.

In the three days the assault force has gone twice as far and twice as fast as it planned.

That transport was still inadequate as the invaders assumed the role of pursuers of the world's fleetest retreaters.

The captain of the commanding company whom I asked how the battle was going replied: "We fired one Bren gun magazine and captured 170 Italian prisoners. We fired a few shots and out came white flags. At one point it looked as if it might be difficult so we finished the magazine. The whole lot surrendered."

AIR AND SEA MASTERY IN SICILIAN AREA IS NOW FIRMLY HELD BY ALLIES

Allied bombers and fighters spread a flaming path of destruction across Sicily and its surrounding waters yesterday, sinking two more merchant ships and damaging two destroyers while shooting down 42 Axis aircraft for a loss of seven of their own, an Allied air communiqué announced today.

One flier reported that "the sky was so full of our aircraft that we almost needed a policeman to relieve the traffic jam."

U. S. FORTRESSES OVER GERMANY BY DAY

A U. S. Army Eighth Air Force Flying Fortress silhouetted against a cloud background as it flies over the outskirts of Wilhelmshaven during one of the March 1943 day raids on this important German Naval Base. Heavy damage was inflicted on submarine pens and harbour installations.

THE OUT-SIDE

● In Great Britain, 90% of the men employed before the war as bus conductors have now been replaced by women conductresses.

● Munitions output in Britain in the first quarter of 1943 has exceeded the output of the first quarter of 1942 by 40%. One worker in three in munitions - including shipbuilding and heavy engineering - is now a woman.

● In the East African campaign, in 17 days (March 1 - 17, 1941) the columns under the command of General Cunningham drove an average of nearly 44 miles a day. This is the fastest military pursuit in history, and is approached only by the record of the Eight Army in 1942-3.

● 250,000 men - the whole of an enemy army - were put out of action in the first North African campaign. Less than 2,000 casualties were suffered by the Army under General Wavell.

● The British Government has taken 580,000 tons of railings and 400,000 tons have already been converted into bombs tanks, ships, etc.

● Wool Bonus—The Alberta Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Dominion Government has agreed to pay a bonus on the 1942 wool clip which has been prepared in accordance with regulations.

Note—The bonus will not be paid on any wool received at a registered warehouse in generally poor condition or requiring special care or work in preparing it for market.

● L. M. Freng Retires—

Mr. Freng, District Agriculturalist, at Brooks is retiring after 23 years of service in the Agriculture Department of the Province of Alberta. It is understood he will retire to his farm a few miles from Brooks.

A COUNTRY EDITOR
SEES

WRITTEN SPECIALLY FOR THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS OF CANADA
by JIM GREENBLAT, Editor of the SUN
SWIFT CURRENT SASKATCHEWAN

This introduces, from the nation's capital, a new series of weekly letters, designed exclusively for community papers of Canada and that vast audience of readers which never gets out to a night club. For the rancher, farmer, fruit grower, miner: the semi-urban and rural people whose feet are directly and indirectly rooted in the soil of Canada.

Your own editor among others has been annoyed to high heaven with the flood of material which comes from Ottawa much of which he cannot use. Like you he's a busy person running that old paper you think so much of, whether you agree with him on politics or not. He knows you would be interested in a quick catch-up on governmental doings and what's what around Ottawa after you come in from chores at night. He also knows you do not relish long winded reading after a hard day's work. And this weekly feature, for your editor's sake and especially you, I hope will fill the bill.

The Wartime Information Board has been made aware that readers of weekly papers are entitled to some thing in their own language from Ottawa, and so, accepting this assignment it would be interesting to get your collective reaction through your editor.

If you have any particular problem which has its anchor in Ottawa, and you want to know what makes it tick, feel free to drop a line to this column. Maybe it can be interpreted for you. Possibly there are thousands of others who want to know about the same thing. But it would be better if none of us get too personal or too political. We'll leave that sort of thing to the politicians.

This column to justify itself should be a national mirror for the home town. I don't suppose you are much interested in the fact that Ottawa looks really beautiful this time of year. So is your own place out east and west. But you might like, occasionally, to hear of strange people, strange faces, strange ideas, all of which makes Ottawa so intriguing even if you have stand in line to eat.

There could be little sidelights, like seeing the Soviet fliers recently; the fellows who flew from Moscow to Ottawa—just like that. I watched them in the hotel lobby in black knee length boots, loose fitting tunics, rakish forage caps; smart earnest looking fellows who looked as if they had a mission in life. Undoubtedly their's is killing Germans. They were watching the smartly dressed girls in and out of uniforms; men of our armed forces, civilians, and seemed to be measuring the standards of democracy as against Communism. I got a kick out of watching them eye the well filled cigar stand, the jammed hotel cafe.

Well, that's part of Ottawa. A little of this, a little of that about government activities, legislation, Parliament none of it too wearying—but informative.

Just recently I heard Hon. Humphrey Mitchell in the House of Commons justify the government's manpower policy. When he said the 5,100,000 men and women out of a total population of 8,720,000 aged 14 years and over were in the armed forces or at work, this on the face of it speaks mightily well for Canada at war. The Opposition calls it a "muddle". Well, after listening in on the debates for weeks on end, it becomes increasingly clear that Canadians have got to think and interpret for themselves a little, too. We'll try to unravel things if possible, always keeping in perspective the national picture and that millions of others have problems and ideas, too.

Letters from from editors all over Canada relative to this new service reveal that people in Canada are pondering these days and want to take the works of the clock apart themselves. One editor suggests we dig with both hands into a Health Insurance measure now pending which he claims would be foisted on us by a medical monopoly, and which in its present form would cost the people plenty.

A Manitoba editor wants, "in simple language enlightenment on matters pertaining to farmers and the farming communities" and also "of what benefit will the post war reconstruction schemes be to the farmer."

That seems to be our "simple task" in this weekly news letter. You must not expect miracles of reporting. Time, experience in digging out the essential facts and developing a continuity of understanding of what you might be interested in out here will follow. Undoubtedly you want facts, and an authentic, unbiased and interpretive slant at Ottawa, dished out as if your own worried-looking editor was here doing it.

RURAL GLEICHEN

WRITES FROM OTTAWA

A member, Mr. Lacombe from Quebec, said in the House that there were three new millionaires among the Cabinet members. Later, he said he was misunderstood and that he meant among the Liberal members. Still later, he said they were among those working in the War effort.

In such cases the rule seems to be that a member must prove the statement or withdraw it or make a formal charge and, if not proven, he must resign.

Mr. Lacombe first said his French was not interpreted correctly. This was not convincing to Mr. King, as other Quebec members said the Hansard man had got the statement correctly. Next, he said he would withdraw the statement because of the expense and time that an investigation would take. This was still not an unconditional withdrawal. Next, he said he had no grounds for making it at all. Still not satisfied, Mr. King said he should express an apology and regret for ever making the remark. This he humbly did and the incident was closed.

Mr. Gardiner said the registration showed there were about three million men of military age in Canada. Over one million are on the farms, almost a million in the Armed forces and another million in Munition factories doing war work.

He said many young men from the farms went to War and no law would keep them from going because it was their duty to go as they saw it. They were the ones who were making the real contribution. He referred to the need of getting unconditional surrender to prevent the recurring wars that were costing life itself to the bravest and best of the generation. War, he said, is bound to bring hardship to any family that take their patriotism seriously.

As he spoke, members recalled that three of his own brothers had been killed in the last War and now his son has been shot down and killed while flying over Germany.

C.P.R. Saves Rubber With New Machine

SHOWN above, with the safety guard removed from the knife for this picture only, to illustrate the operation of the cutter, is a new machine developed at the Canadian Pacific Railway's Angus Shops in Montreal as part of a programme for reclaiming rubber, latest phase of the company's Dominion-wide conservation campaign. The machine prepares worn and burst sections of rubber hose from air and signal connections to be put back into service. The good sections of the used hose are spliced with the aid of a small malleable-iron adapter and the reclaimed product meets all safety requirements. In the short time the programme has been in effect five and one-half tons of rubber have been saved with 5,384 air hose and 1,058 signal hose reclaimed to make up that total, according to H. B. Bowen, chief of motive power and rolling stock, who is in charge of the rubber-saving plan. Over the year it is estimated there will be a saving of 30 per cent. in the rubber hose used on the 84,139 pieces of company rolling stock — with locomotives, passenger equipment, freight and work cars included in that total.

If Canada is worth fighting for, our homes, our industry, our politics must be worth dying for. Are they? Always? In every way?

Crossing The Threshold

SINCE last Saturday when the first significant news that our troops had landed in Sicily, was made known and that other large reinforcements were being shipped to North Africa, Canadians, Americans and British born, have read the daily reports and listened to the radio broadcasts with quickened pulse and tense nerve.

The second front has been opened in Europe. We have no doubt that this will be followed by other fronts, for the Allies are of one mind in defeating the Nazi forces of tyranny quickly and effectively.

We are on the verge of tremendous consequences. The cost in lives and suffering will be appalling of which one dreads to think.

There seems no way to victory but through the fiery furnace of affliction. We are assured that our men will not be found wanting in the struggle that lies ahead. They have already proven themselves possessed of courageous spirit and dauntless courage, that will carry them through these difficult days, to the day of Victory.

We must follow them with our support and our prayers.

May it prove true that Sir Edward Benes prediction that the war will end in the winter of 1943-44 is correct.

Then thereafter we, the common people, along with those of larger power must insist on building a world in which wars shall be outmoded.

TIME CHANGES MANY THINGS

THE changes wrought by time in buildings as well as persons are interesting and sometimes astonishing. A case in point is that of the frame building adjoining T. Ekes Blacksmith shop which has recently been purchased by the Gade Brothers and is now being carefully dismantled, the lumber therein to be taken to build sheds on the Gade Bros. farm.

This shed about 20 by 75 ft. was built in 1909 by Mr. Alex Gray to house Massey-Harris and other implements.

The front part in its early days was used by the Ladies of the then, Presbyterian Church to hold their teas, Pumpkin Pie Socials etc.

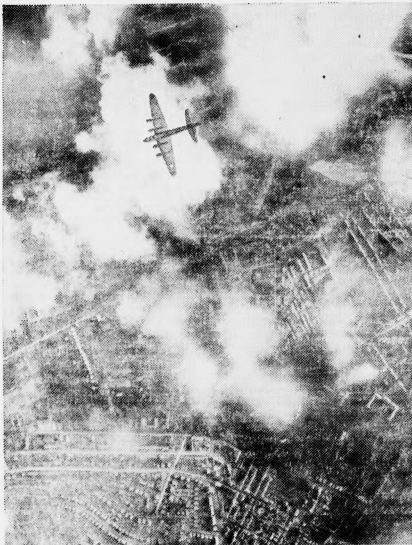

In latter years it has been rented by the Hughes Motors to store extra tractors etc.

Now as weather and time permit the building is being carefully dismantled and

"The place that knew it of yore Shall know it no more."

We have not heard yet of anyone planning to build a modern apartment on the site, but perhaps that may come later.

WAR PRISONER FOR FARM WORK

(From Brooks Bulletin)

L. C. Charlesworth, E. I. D. manager said this week that possibly another week or ten days will be required to complete arrangements for bringing prisoners of war to the district to help in the critical farm labor situation. He carried on discussions this week with Col. E. S. Doughty, who was in Brooks to survey the set-up.

The E. I. D. is now trying to arrange to have prisoners placed in small camps at a number of points throughout the district, where they will be housed, and from where they will go out each morning to the farmers to whom they are allotted. It may be necessary for the farmer to furnish transportation, and it is thought probable that if arrangement is decided upon, the farmers will have to board the men.

Wages $45 to $50—

The District is also trying to arrange for wages of from $45 to $50 per month to be paid for the services of the prisoners. They will possibly be obtained from Seebe internment camp and are not soldier but from the German merchant marine service.

Mr. Charlesworth stated that no promises can be made as to results of the scheme but every effort is being made to get satisfactory arrangements made as soon as possible.

The manner of employment of prisoners is strictly laid down by the Geneva convention. There are therefore numerous minor difficulties to be worked out so that regulations will not be contravened while at the same time local farmers will get their much needed help while it will still be of the most value to them.

OTTAWA LETTER

F. W. GERSHAW, M. P.

Within the next few weeks four Federal by-elections will be held and a general Provincial election will be held in Ontario.

Although a few members are away campaigning, the general program of the House is going on as usual. The Morning Sessions are being well attended although many Committees are sitting and great cords of correspondence comes to and goes from the Post Office. Many noted visitors have come to Ottawa recently. This week Donald Nelson, Chairman of the U. S. A. War Production Board, is visiting the War plants and stated that he was amazed at the magnitude of Canada's War Industries.

Mr. Gillis stated that the fourteen dollar-a-year Controllers, still gave their chief loyalty to the interests of the Private Companies and that the Department of Supply was not forced to buy at prices below the Ceiling. He said their future livelihood was in their private positions and we are all human.

Mr. Halsey replied that their motives were not selfish and sordid but that the important thing for them was the doing of a great War job. The purchasing was done by the buying group and not by the Controllers. Every contract above $2,000 must be approved by the Chief of the Department. Every purchase above $5,000 must be approved by the Chief and also by the Deputy Minister. Every contract above $15,000 must be approved by these officers and also by the Cabinet. Then there is the Purchasing Investigation Department. This is a group of business men who search out the weakness of every order. The Cost Accountants check all accounts before they go to the Auditor General. Firms are proceeded against if they do not produce proper records. Post discharge out of work and training benefits in New Zealand, will continue for twelve weeks. In Australia paid in Australia is $19.23 a week, in New Zealand $20.16, and in Canada $24.09 per week. All countries fear and are trying to avoid post war unemployment with all its dreaded hardships.

Old Inns of England

—By Walter R. Legge—

Following the completion of the Bomber Press series of articles, some readers have enquired why there was not an article about the old inns the party visited.

Such an article really has little to do with the war effort, so that it could not properly belong in the Bomber Press series. However, the old inns play a most important part in the life and history of England, and we naturally visited a number of them.

Nearly every settlement of any size in England possesses at least one ancient inn well worth a visit with an interesting history and picturesque architecture.

Probably the most famous, to Canadians at least, is the Old Cheshire Cheese in Fleet Street, which dates back to 1667. It was a haunt of Dr. Johnson, Oliver Goldsmith, James Boswell, and many other famous men. It has been badly battered in the raids, but steak pudding is out, probably for the duration. It was serving beverages when the Bomber Press was in London.

One of the first that we visited was "Skindle's Hotel" at Maldenhead, which is not a very old inn but is quite famous, and was very popular before the war on account of its superb location on the Thames. Our party can testify that an excellent meal is still being served there.

Our home for many days was the "Old Ship" hotel at Brighton, one of the best known of the numberless hotels at that seaside city. It was here that Dickens spent ten days in 1837 when he was writing "Oliver Twist"; and he described his quarters as "a beautiful bay-windowed sitting room, fronting the sea." (Could it have been the same room that was occupied by Messrs. Charters and Legge while there?) This was far from the only time that Dickens stayed at the Old Ship, and he wrote from this hotel to George Cattermole who was illustrating the "Old Curiosity Shop". Dickens is known to have made many trips to Brighton and probably was often at this old hotel.

It did not take us long to discover that the best meals in England in wartime are to be found in some of the smaller old inns, and two of the best meals we had while there were served at the "White Hart" at Lewes, only a few miles from Brighton.

At this inn, the carving is done in the dining room by Mrs. Walton, wife of the proprietor.

The building is a very old one dating from the fourteenth century, and was the home of the Pelham family, from which came the Dukes of Newcastle and the Earls of Chichester. The mansion was turned into an inn about 1717, and since then has entertained many celebrities.

After our second meal there, Mr. Walton took the party through the wine cellar of the inn. This cellar is reputed to have been used to confine prisoners during the Commonwealth period, and is referred to in this connection is "Ovingdean Grange" by Harrison Ainsworth. There is some very fine oak panelling of the Tudor period in the two drawing rooms.

Another fine meal at a small inn was enjoyed in the same district at the Roebuck Inn at Wych Cross, the junction of two old Roman roads. This inn is not an old one, although it is made to look antiquated.

Grantham, in Lincolnshire, has two famous old inns, the "Angel" and the "George". The latter, at which we had a delicious lunch, proudly displays a brass plate setting forth the phrase in Dickens' "Nicholas Nickleby" which reads, "Twenty miles further on, two of the front outside passengers wisely availing themselves of their arrival at one of the best inns in England, turned in, for the night, at the George at Grantham." The George dates from 1780, but does not look as interesting as the Angel which goes back to the fifteenth century and once lodged Richard III.

Bristol has many fascinating old inns, probably the most interesting being the "Llandoger Trow" which was built in 1664, one of a block of half-timbered houses by the Welsh Back quay. The quay is cobblestone, and the mooring posts are ancient ships' cannon. It was from here that the "Hispaniola" of Stevenson's "Treasure Island" set out and the Llandoger Trow was probably the "Spyglass". Bristol was one of the most famous pirates' haunts in the world, and some of the most notorious pirates came from there, such as Captain Edward Teach, (Blackbeard, as he was called), Captain Bartholomew Roberts, and the pirate woman, Mary Read.

The cellars of the Llandoger Trow were used as temporary prisons by the Press gangs, and also for rum running, and one passage leads to the Welsh Back quay, and another to the Theatre Royal.

Many famous people having been entertained at the Llandoger Trow including Henry Irving, Wilson Barrett, Kate Terry, Beerholm Tree, and also Judge Jeffreys. In it Defoe met Dr. Selkirk, the original of Robinson Crusoe.

The ceiling of the bar is now a shiny black, but it is said that originally, it was covered with excellent paintings of scantily clad ladies, but some 200 years ago a fascinating widow who kept the inn had them painted over with black because the seamen admired the paintings instead of her.

Another Bristol inn which looks as if it might have a romantic past is the "Hatchet". This was first pointed out to us one moonlight night as we were returning from an evening at the Savages' Club. In the deserted street by the eerie light of the moon it appeared as if anything might happen there, but on a subsequent visit in the daytime, it seemed to lodge nothing more sinister than a dart game.

These dart boards are tremendously popular in England and many be found in almost every hotel.

An inn which will be remembered by most Canadians who were in the last war is the Royal Anchor at Liphook. One of the features of this hotel is that all the rooms are named after famous people who have occupied them. This inn dates from 1745. It is famous for the immense and very old chestnut tree in front of it, and also because it was a haunt of Lord Nelson and Lady Hamilton. It has to share that fame with a great many other places, because I concluded that there are as many places in England where Lord Nelson and Lady Hamilton sojourned, as there are places in America where George Washington slept.

Salisbury, which some of us visited one Sunday has a number of famous old inns. We were strongly recommended to get our lunch at the "Haunch of Venison" but found that it did not serve meals on Sunday. This is believed to be the inn described in Dickens' "Martin Chuzzlewit" where Tom Pinch went to meet Martin Chuzzlewit, and also where Tom returned after his dismissal from Mr. Pecksniff. Another hotel in Salisbury which figure in the same book is the White Hart, where Tig and Jonas came on the night of their disastrous ride from London. The White Hart is quite a large hotel with the figure of a white hart on top of the front. This white hart can be seen for some distance down the street.

We were not able to get lunch at either of these hotels and went to the County Hotel.

ROCKYFORD

—By K. M. G.—

The hail of last week in this district did considerable damage on several farms north of Rockyford and what rains we have had, were just small local showers, while the rest of the district is quite dry.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradwell have had their niece visiting with them for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Durrant had both their daughters home with them last week but they have returned home now.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Ed McLean of Nanton, that their nephew, Wallace, who grew up in Rockyford, and had been with the R. C. A. F. overseas is reported missing. Wallace went to the Rockyford school until the family moved to Nanton, where he took his high school work while driving the school bus mornings and nights. He went overseas last fall after receiving his wings in a training station in Saskatoon and finally at High River.

Mrs. Gibson has her niece Betty Mc Bride, with her for the week-end.

The Ladies Aid Society of the United Church held their regular meeting on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Ellison, the Vice President, in the chair. The principal business of the day was arrangements for the ice cream tea to be held at the church parlors on Wednesday, July 14th when they will serve a light supper and home made Ice Cream etc. As there is very little business during the summer months, and many may be away it was decided to close down until time for the first meeting in September.

The Calgary Stampede claimed many visitors from Rockyford for a part of the week or all. They all report especially good cowboy riding and bucking and grand stand performances and fire works.

Mr. Andrew Ostrovicha spent a few days here with his family last week. He is at present employed as barber at Claresholm.

Rev. and Mrs. Ellison were in Calgary for a convention at Mount Royal College last week.

20,000 tons of iron and steel, 500 tons of aluminum and 250 tons of sheet aluminum will be released for industrial purposes by the decision of the British Ministry of Works to break up a quarter of a million disused motor cars and other vehicles.

In the year that war broke out Britain imported more than 1,890,000 tons of paper making materials. Today her imports are negligible and paper is being made from salvaged paper and sometimes from cotton rags.

RED CROSS HOLDS VERY SUCCESSFUL PICNIC

On July 1st, the Red Cross held a marathonic picnic at Wyndana Park. The picnic got under way with a softball game between the lower grades of the Carseland School.

Following this a hardball game was held between Carseland and Mossleigh resulting in a victory for Carseland. After the hardball game various races were held. The race causing the most merriment was the "check wagon race" where a driver had to drive his team around stakes to complete a figure eight.

After the races the girls played softball, Glencairn being the winners. After the girls' game the final between Carseland and Mossleigh was played, Mossleigh being the victor.

The day ended with a large dance in the Community Hall, music supplied by Downey's orchestra. Two quilts were raffled by the Red Cross, the winners being Mr. A. Phillips, Arrowwood and Roy Downey.

Those in charge of the picnic were: At the Gate—Mr. J. Christensen and Mr. Hill.

Sports—Mr. Walter Crowe.
 Races—Mr. Don McKinnon and Mr. Harry Groves.

Novelty booth—Mr. A. Catrom, Mr. Max Phillips and Mr. R. Bishop.

Lunch booth—Mr. B. Slater, Mrs. Field, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Max Phillips, Mrs. Crowe and Mrs. McKinnon.

The Red Cross would like to thank most heartily all those who helped to sell tickets for the dance; sell tickets on the quilts; who helped to organize the picnic and the dance; and to all the people who attended to make this such a grand financial success for such a worthy cause.

Mrs. W. Crowe and Mrs. H. Wood have gone to Banff for a short holiday.

Mrs. Mutch, Jimmy and Fern have gone to Calgary for two months.

Mrs. Robert Tait, Marjorie and Ruth of Kenora, Ontario are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Bonitz. Mr. Tait R. C. A. S. C. of Red Deer came down to be with his family for the week-end.

Billy and Jerry Hansen have gone to Manitoba to visit their aunt for a brief holiday.

Don't forget the hard time dance to be held in the Carseland Hall on July 23rd.

The Country Fair

The wisdom of continuing agricultural exhibitions in wartime cannot be questioned so long as proper emphasis is placed on agricultural matters.

For several years, the exhibit of The North-West Line Elevators Association has been among the most popular features at B class fairs. We estimated that in 1942, it attracted the attention of about 50,000 persons. It has always combined useful information with attractive appearance, and this year is no exception.

Food rationing has brought home to all of us the importance of agriculture in this war. Inefficiency in farm operations now means not only loss to the farmer, but it actually hinders progress in defeating our enemies. This has been kept in mind in designing the exhibit.

Through the generous co-operation of the Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the exhibit includes a very interesting display concerned with variable flies. Specimens of damaged leather, figures on actual losses and control methods are included, and a new bulletin will be distributed.

The central part of the exhibit portrays the movement of food from the farm to the fighting forces, and one wing is devoted to emergency rationing used in the army, navy and air force. Other features are weeds, soil erosion and "sound" moving pictures.

We hope to welcome our readers at Swift Current (frontier celebration), Calgary, Regina, Yorkton, Melfort, Lloydminster, Vermilion, Vegreville, Red Deer, North Battleford and Prince Albert.

THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT

(Weekly Review of National Affairs)
By M. McDUGALL

—“BEFORE THE LEAVES FALL”—

Ottawa—It was in an atmosphere tense with the knowledge that “before the leaves fall” the forces of the allies will launch the great offensive against the continent of Europe and that the Canadian overseas army will be in the midst of it, that the prime minister and leaders of all other parties in the house of Commons on Dominion Day commemorated the seventysixth birthday of confederation. It was a fitting and dramatic hour for the members to sing “O Canada,” to express through their leaders their faith in the armed forces and people of Canada in the face of the ordeals that lie ahead and to pledge their fullest support of the boys fighting Canada's battles on land, on sea and in the air.

PRICE CONTROL

Price control whatever its faults and whatever difficulties lie ahead, has held back the forces of inflation, the house has been told by the minister of finance. If prices had advanced in the way they did in the last war, the additional cost to the people of Canada in 1943 would have been $350,000,000. The cost of living index had risen only 1.5% in the period between Nov. 1, 1941 when the price control was established and May 1, 1943. The minister warned, however, that there were “crucial and difficult” times ahead. About $68,000,000 has been paid out last year in subsidies an essential element in the maintenance of the price ceiling. For this year the appropriation is $120,000,000. The refusal of the U. S. congress to authorize the payment of subsidies in that country is doubtless one of the disturbing clouds on the horizon. Rising prices across the border must exert some pressure on our price ceiling. One of the administrative “headaches” of the War-time Prices and Trade Board has been the rationing of sugar for canning purposes.

Food Problems—

It is becoming increasingly apparent that our people have to accustom themselves to the food restrictions that are essential in wartime. The production of Canada's farms has expanded, but this production has to be viewed as a force on the side of the United Nations. This country has assumed heavy obligations for shipment of bacon cheese wheat and other foodstuffs to Britain, which have to be filled. Canada has its joint production agreements with the United States which are aimed at the most effective arrangement to fill the needs of the United Nations. The consuming public will have to adjust its wants to the urgent needs of allied nations during the rest of the war and afterwards for a time to the crying necessity of the liberated nations. If Canada is to play its full part as one of the world's great food producing nations, it will be for the average Canadian not to ask “when will our supplies for domestic consumption return to normal?” but “how much more can I spare for those of my friends who need it more, without impairing the health of my family?” The food conference at Hot Springs has opened a new perspective on the voluntary sacrifice of the individual.

The manpower dispute has passed temporarily. During the past week Mr. Mitchell gave figures to show that of the manpower pool in selected classes available for call-up for military service amounting to 888,000 only 88,000 were unaccounted for. Mr. Gardiner emphasized that the test of manpower policy must be found in results. There are now, he said, about three quarters of a million in the armed forces, and with those ready to join it would approach the million mark. Another third of the population was in industry and another third in agriculture. Of the farmers of Canada, he said, that with all the wartime hardships they had to endure, there was not a farmer he had met whose first thought and aim was not the winning of the war.

The Japanese Problem in B. C.—

Pretty strong feelings in relation to the Japanese problem in Western Canada have been voiced by members of parliament from British Columbia. The Japanese have been removed from “protected areas” in the province and a part of the Japanese population of 23,000 have been moved to other provinces. Some members have insisted that the Japanese problem is now a Canadian not a provincial problem and the suggestion was advanced that the Japanese in Canada should be repatriated at the close of the war. Mr. Mitchell said that the questions of minorities would be discussed by nations at the peace conference after the war. The general policy of all nations would there be framed, but Canada would not now depart from the humane principles of the British peoples in dealing with minorities.

The Empire Parliamentary Conference

Last week saw the close of the conference at Ottawa of members of the Empire Parliamentary Association. Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Bermuda were represented with Canada and at the final sessions three senators and members of the house of representatives at Washington attended. The Americans came on Canada's invitation and in accord with a joint resolution of the two houses of Congress. The meeting with parliamentarians from the British Commonwealth formed a new link in the bonds of “understanding, friendship and good will” between the great English speaking nations who are brothers in arms in the world struggle and in co-operative efforts the future of the world so largely depends.

Courage of Chinese Outlined by Speaker

Following up his theme, “The Chinese Church Can Take It,” Dr. Basil Mathews, an authority on world relations, who spoke at Central United church Wednesday evening, told of the courage of the Chinese people.

He told how a Chinese friend, Dr. Timothy Tinfang Lew, and he were walking down High street in Oxford after inter-racial church service at the college chapel, when newsboys shouted, “Japs bomb Peking.”

“My daughter is there alone,” exclaimed Dr. Lew, “and my wife is in Japan at an educational conference.”

Before sailing back to China, he learned they were safe in Shanghai, but immediately radio news came that the hotel in Shanghai where they had been staying was bombed by the Japanese. By radio on board, he learned by good fortune they were not in the hotel at the time.

Five Sons Shot—

Reaching Shanghai, a 70-year-old Chinese mother asked for news of her family. “How was I to tell her,” Dr. Lew asked Mathews, “that the Japs had shot all five of her sons that morning in the Methodist church compound, without breaking her heart and breaking her faith in God?”

Dr. Mathews used this and numerous other similar experiences to illustrate the terrific tension under which Chinese Christians are living today, both in occupied and free China.

Over 1,000 libraries containing fully a million books have been destroyed in a deliberate attack by Japanese forces on cultural and spiritual life of China. As a result, over 90 universities, colleges and vocational schools have travelled distances up to 2,000 miles on foot and by river to the highlands of China. These include many Christian bodies.

College Bombed—

As an example, Dr. Mathews told of the girls of one splendid Christian college at Gin Ling, who were bombed out of its building, and who carried hundreds of parcels of their books for 1,800 miles to the campus of the West

China Christian Union University, which is now crowded with students of five different universities.

Those Christian girls are not studying there under most difficult circumstances, but going out among the illiterate soldiers, teaching them to read in order to help make a new democratic China after the war.

Another example of the way the Chinese can take it is Dr. G. E. Chang, at the Che Lo, who was captured by the Japanese. He, a professor of the New Testament, organized students to meet trains, and care for the half-frozen soldiers crammed into the primitive steel freight cars. Today, in addition, he has organized a remarkable evangelistic enterprise among the wandering tribes in Tibet.

Toronto City Council Condemns Nazi Treatment of Jewish People

The Resolution of the City Council of Toronto, recently adopted and forwarded to Prime Minister King—

“This council does emphatically condemn the brutal policy of murderous extermination of Jewish and other racial and religious groups in Nazi-Fascist occupied territories, and further, that this Council does declare that these heinous crimes against humanity shall strengthen our resolution to defeat the Nazi-Fascist enemy of civilization, secure the liberation of all oppressed people and bring freedom to the world, and that this Council ask the Federal Government to act in unison with the United Nations in protesting the Nazi atrocities against a helpless people and to co-operate with the United Nations in the efforts to secure a haven for those victims who can be saved from the grip of Hitlerism at the present time.”

75% of the houses in Valetta, the capital of Malta, have been destroyed by air raids.

TWO-THIRDS of the total number of loans outstanding in Canada's Chartered Banks average less than $500 per loan.

Through bank loans, Canada's Chartered Banks help Canadians to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country. Many of these loans are small—but all contribute their share to the day-by-day activities of Canadian enterprise.

Some further facts about Canada's Banks:

Chartered Banks' loans related to agriculture as shown on the last official return to Parliament, totalled $340,118,473. This sum included loans to farmers, ranchers, fruit raisers and to grain dealers and grain exporters.

Every general manager today heading a Chartered Bank entered the bank as a junior in some small branch.

Up to and including February, 1943, no fewer than 6803 men and 154 women bank employees had enlisted in the armed forces.

Canadians in every walk of life and in every part of Canada are served by more than three thousand branches and sub-agencies maintained by the Chartered Banks to facilitate the nation's business.

With other Polish naval units, the destroyer “Krakowiak” is taking part in the great Allied drive against the U-boat. The “Krakowiak” is named after Cracow, Poland's great industrial centre. A growing number of Polish-manned warships are now fighting beside the British Royal Navy, joining with their fellow countrymen in the land and air forces in the conflict that will terminate Nazi tyranny in Europe.

The rain which fell Saturday and Wednesday gave necessary moisture which was badly needed. So far in this district the crops are standing up well and prospects are good.

Waste paper collected in the United Kingdom from November 1, 1939 to August 31, 1942, amounted to nearly 2 1/4 million tons. It would have required 450 ships, each of 5,000 tons cargo capacity, to transport it.

"Wave After Wave"

A. E. Powley, of the CBC overseas news staff, recently made a tour of several Canadian units in the United Kingdom. Here are his impressions of an incident which occurred in the night, as broadcast on a recent CBC national news summary—

"The noise of their engines was incessant as wave after wave of our bombers streamed out toward the coast. Back in Canada I often heard that sentence, or one something like it in the cabled dispatches about our night raids on Europe, and as often as it came I used to think that the sound of a procession of our heavy bombers outward bound must be an awe-inspiring thing. Well, I heard it the other night and it is. The bombers passed over, wave after wave as the dispatches usually put it, as I lay in an army tent in the wood in a particularly beautiful part of rural England. How many of them there were I couldn't guess, but they were a mighty force. I don't know either how long they took to pass for when the noise of their going was finished it left no clear recollection of beginning or end, only of immensity. The sound filled the valleys and echoed in sustained volleys from the hillsides. If you were to imagine an endless succession of giant express trains overhead you would have an idea of what it was like. Or you might arrive at a closer idea by contemplating the probable thunder of Judgement Day.

Perhaps it isn't strange how far and fast one's thoughts can travel along the sound track that the bombers make. It's as if you could see through the darkness far over the hills and the valleys out over to the sea and almost to the unknown target toward which the planes are hurrying. Or for the instant or two in which you hear the individual sound of a single plane overhead your mind's eye catches a half picture of the men in it and you have a quick wonder of who they are and where they're from. Perhaps they're Canadians, perhaps English or Australian or perhaps some of each. But then they're gone like a gale and another plane or group of planes comes roaring up in their wake.

I didn't know of course what the target was but it wasn't necessary. It was satisfyingly certain that some place in enemy territory was in for it in a big way—in for such a concentrated dose of destruction as this scarred and gassed London never knew in the worst days of the Blitz. It turned out from the next days' communique that the target had been in the Ruhr again. Also the communique told of our losses that night. The figure did not seem disproportionate, but I know that some of the lads who passed so close in the darkness were going that way for the last time. But I don't think that anyone who heard it could forget the triumphant voice of their passing.

—OLD INNS OF ENGLAND—

Another interesting old inn at which we stayed was the Saracen's Head at Lincoln, but we could not learn it had any special history.

The inns mentioned above are some that we visited or stayed at, but we passed large numbers of other picturesque ones. With the various restrictions now in force, most of them are closed for a good part of the day.

One other inn was worthy of mention, the Northgate Arms, an old inn which is in beautiful condition and at which we were served a splendid meal. It is situated a few miles from Bath and stands entirely alone.

There are no end of inns in England called "The Marquis of Granby", but the Marquis of Granby kept by Mrs. Weller in "Pickwick Papers" was an entirely mythical inn. We passed a number of them, one of the largest being in London on the Old Kent Road.

The other hotels we stayed in in England were more or less modern ones, and have been mentioned in other articles.

Don Nelson was being put through the paces by an old sea captain.

Captain—What would you do if a sudden storm sprang up on the starboard?

Don—Throw out an anchor, sir.

Cap—What would you do if another storm sprang up aft?

Don—Throw out another anchor.

Cap—And if a terrible storm sprang up forward, what would you do?

Don—Throw out another anchor.

Cap—Hold on. Where are you getting all your anchors from?

Don—From the same place you're getting your storms, sir.

Allee—Oh Roy, why did you turn the light out?

Roy—I just wanted to see if my pipe was lit.
